Hello Guys, In my app I have a RecyclerView which I fill with some data from the server using a retrofit client. But I have one problem when the RecyclerView is empty, it loads 100% data and then display the items I have. So how can I update the UI before display all the data in the RecyclerView? Just in a few words: how can I show my loading text before fill the RecyclerView? What I need: When the RecyclerView is empty I need to show something like Loading Text and then display the data. I find this solution but I don't know how to apply in my case. Thank you. A: You can show a progress circle using a RecyclerViewSpinner. For example, using this library: Here's an example: private void showRecyclerView() { progress = new ProgressDialog(context); progress.setProgressStyle(ProgressDialog.STYLE_SPINNER); progress.setCancelable(true); progress.setMessage("Loading..."); progress.show(); Spinner spinner = new Spinner(context, android.R.style.Theme_Holo_Light_Dialog_NoActionBar); spinner.setAdapter(new ArrayAdapter(context, android.R.layout.simple_spinner_dropdown_item, list)); spinner.setOnItemSelectedListener(new AdapterView.OnItemSelectedListener() { @Override public void onItemSelected(AdapterView parent, View view, int position, long id) { Toast.makeText(context, list.get(position).toString(), Toast.
