Partition Master License Code.Q: My server needs a reboot, how can I provide it now? I am a newbie sysadmin. I have a web server which is being used for small projects. I have no clue about security. I do not know how to stop a site from hosting malware in my server. I also do not know how to provide a sandbox for an online game site without hosting the game in my server. I really hope you can help.

A: Re: provide a sandbox for an online game site without hosting the game in my server Adding a Minecraft server on the same box as your webserver is not an ideal solution. If you must run it on the same machine, then the solution I would suggest is to place the server outside of your webserver's network, so that it does not take network resources from your webserver. If you do not control the external network, then you need to consider where your servers are connected to. As for stopping malware hosted on your webs
