Search for duplicates has an application with the working name SearchForDuplicates. It's a well developed Windows application that not only detects duplicates but can also clean them up for you without a lot of effort. This application will quickly scan your entire PC for similar files, in all of the folders that you have set as sources. This was a problem for a couple of days until I fiddled around with the settings. Once you do this, the application will become stable for a long time, so you can use it to clean up your PC. If you do not want to use the options to remove duplicate files, then this application is great. Just find all of the duplicates and have them deleted. It does take a while to detect duplicate files, but the application works quickly.
