

This message was preached by Brother Gbile Akanni and brought to you by the kind permission of Living Seed Team Media, Gboko, Benue State, Nigeria. John Shuster, Team GB I secretly believed that in the end our team would get together and finish the story of the team spirit. But in reality it turned out differently. After Gobbi's suggestion, I only wrote about the current team and their progress. I promised to write the real story, given my promise to you that started it all. I knew I couldn't, because I just couldn't, just as I couldn't, choosing my words. One day the editor called to me from the office: - You really can't write about the team? Until then, we didn't talk about the team in general and how we make progress. "Nothing," I replied. And called Gobbo: - You said that the team, although not considered great, is still important. What does it mean to be great? Can you tell us anything about your team? About what makes us great? And why? From that day on, I started working on the book. I went through hundreds of websites and tweets, interviews and documentaries, and then dialed the phone Gobo gave me. I dictated my story to him for the book and asked him if he agreed. After receiving a negative answer, I continued to work, so I asked Gobineau not to tell anything about my team. The next few weeks were spent writing the first chapter. Unfortunately, the version that I sent to the publisher did not correspond to the desired topic and was written very sparingly, like a school essay. I don't want to go into details of how long I was depressed. I wrote and worked, wrote and read, and felt that almost all of my thoughts revolved around the idea of "an upcoming interview. I sent "reports" and "reports", asked for and demanded comments, wrote, called, spoke and wrote again, but mostly remained silent. Needless to say, I was worried and worried about the article. And there was something to worry about. The first pages appeared almost every week, but then they became less and less. Finally I received a book where there is not a word about my "team". I was incredibly angry and upset, and yet I couldn't
