Attachments Processor for Outlook is a useful program that allows you to extract attachments from emails and save them to a target folder. Once the attachments have been extracted, the program can save them to the target folder with multiple rules. You can schedule the program to perform actions automatically in intervals, such as saving attachments every hour or daily. The program is able to exclude certain types of files or attach a certain filename for each action. Besides, you can use filters in order to extract certain attachments from a sender or a specific keyword in the email subject. The program can also archive the extracted attachments in order to create a folder that will be structured and organized. You can protect each archive by means of a password that will only be known to you. As for the functionality, the program is very simple to use and easy to master. Besides, you can set the program to automatically download attachments and save them, every several hours or minutes. The program features multiple actions that can be performed on the downloaded attachments. Different actions can be set for each email folder.
