A: Using a regex to split each line on whitespace and then explode on a comma will work. `$result = preg_split("/[\r]+/", $input); $result = explode(',', $result[0]);` If, however, you only want the first item of the returned array, you can use `array_shift`: `$result = preg_split("/[\r]+/", $input); $result = array_shift($result);` Q: Using the Theory of Represetion Schemes I am having some trouble with this exercise. The exercise says: "The first order homogeneous space theory of Algebraic Geometry consists of: - Using a scheme to cover the projective space \mathbb{P}^n - Giving equivalent descriptions of the classes of degree i elements of the ring of multilinear functions $\mathcal{A} = \mathbb{K}[X_{i,j}]_{0 \leq i \leq n, j=1, \dots, n+1}$ - Describing the changes of basis matrices in \mathcal{A} which transform one class of a particular degree of elements to another However in this exercise, I don't understand why $\mathbb{R}^{(\leq i)}$ is a scheme and not just a set. Here is what I have done, I have proven that the first homogeneous space is a scheme : I have the following definition: A coherent sheaf on a scheme S is a sheaf \mathcal{A} of \mathcal{O}_S - \mathcal{M} odules such that $\forall s \in S$ the restriction of \mathcal{A} to the inverse image S_s is a coherent \mathcal{O}_{S_s} - \mathcal{M} odule. It is a flat sheaf by definition. The scheme is locally of finite type if it is of the form $\mathbb{A}^m \setminus \{p_i\} = \text{Spec}(k[x_1, \dots, x_m])$, where $k[x_1, \dots, x_m]$ is a polynomial ring. For the first homogeneous space $\mathbb{R}^{(\leq i)}$, we will use the scheme \mathbb{P}^{n-1} . Let us see that the
