For teachers Teachers and parents can buy books for children at various price ranges, or pay for a single book through the University's Bookstore. Each book has a unique ISBN, so that they can be tracked and checked to verify the purchase and make sure you receive the correct book. All students are given their unique identification number when they start school. The number will be issued on a bracelet, necklace or other similar object in the kindergarten, and you will need to use this number to check your child's registration when they leave school. Students are also issued a hand-written booklet, known as the 'Certificate of Attendance', which is their copy of their daily attendance record. This booklet is very useful to have when you move schools or send your child to a nursery school. Books for Students The children's books in the collection are listed below, with the approximate price ranges you might expect to see on the market, and details of which books are available to check from the Bookstore. The present invention relates to a hydraulic adjusting means for the steering and driving mechanism of a vehicle, in particular of a tractor, which is intended for a rutted road and which comprises, connected to a central part, a wheel axle assembly including a steering wheel, a further wheel axle assembly, a steering cylinder for the further wheel axle assembly, a driving cylinder for the further wheel axle assembly, and a conduit system, provided with a shut-off valve, for the steering and driving cylinders. It is known to equip tractors with hydraulic rutshaping and/or traction means for forcing the tractor to travel over a road surface which is covered with ruts. For example, a device of this type is disclosed in Danish Patent Publication No. 145,932. In that case, the tractor comprises a wheel assembly with a steering wheel, a further wheel assembly and
