RE: How to correct the ticking of the door bell after a power outage Make sure that the back of the door bell is on a "switch" and not a "bell." I can't think what else you need. Your area may have different standards. For instance, a "wire" is labeled as such even if it isn't connected directly to an electric panel but uses AC power. If you are connected to a system using the power line, the components will be labeled as such. If you are connected to the house's panel, the s/w will usually be labeled as such.
