Hi, I need a file extension that is shared by Microsoft Word and Excel files that have the "Not Used" property set to "false". My problem is that my recipient will only convert the files from Windows machines so they will only understand the.xlsx extension. I am checking for any alternate file extensions that will give the same results. Is there a way to do this within PowerShell?

Thanks, Michelle Hi Michelle, I am not sure if this fits your needs, but if you don't want the recipient to be able to find out the properties of the files, you could always convert them to PDF, but then the recipient will not be able to open them again. If the files are just printed to PDF instead of being converted to image files, then you don't need to worry too much about file extensions. There is an example file here: You can download it: [url] Kind regards Nicola Hi Michelle, I am not sure if this fits your needs, but if you don't want the recipient to be able to find out the properties of the files, you could always convert them to PDF, but then the recipient will not be able to open them again.
