These include the size, hardness, color or opacity, and spacing between brushstrokes, and a Stroke option that determines how they are applied. When you paint, new strokes are entered in the Stencil Layer, which are drawn on the canvas. Once you make adjustments to the settings, you can keep them, apply them to all other brushes, or choose one of the preset values. Click the Open dialog box (located in the gear icon menu bar, above the preview image) to open a palette with presets for all sorts of brush strokes and effects. You can create new preset values to use in your next project. You can also change the active brush tool with the left-click menu. * Brush tools —Each of the three brush tools (Size, Eraser, and Ink) has its own set of settings, just like any other tool. Its Brush tool options include: * Size—Choose a brush size from the palette.
