New gameplay features include the ability to utilize in-game data to create more realistic movement such as modifying the ball deceleration after a passing or dribbling action; fine-tuning the variety of body types in the game; player variations such as height, weight, and clothing; tweaks to the impact strength of kicks and headers; and a variety of new challenges and tactics. Using FIFA Player Ratings (FPR), FIFA 22 incorporates player attributes into its FPR. Every FPR now contains an Attribute Rating (AR), which can be found underneath their Position Rating. Each new FPR is designed to make players across all different abilities more challenging to play against and therefore creates a more balanced and dynamic game. On the pitch, FIFA 22 introduces in-game powers that amplify the player's ability to interact with the ball, boost the speed and effectiveness of certain actions, or unlock contextual gameplay options. These player abilities will change how players play the game and implement elements of skill, strategy, and tactics. FIFA 22 will be available October 27 for Xbox One, PlayStation 4, Nintendo Switch, and PC. At launch, players will be able to participate in the EA SPORTS FIFA Club, and new features and content will be constantly added to the EA SPORTS FIFA Club. For more information about FIFA 22, visit FIFA.com.

Precursor ion depletion for sensitive determination of selected alkaloids in different types of herbal preparations using ion chromatography.

Direct injection of samples into the ion chromatography (IC) system is difficult due to the low concentration and ubiquitous presence of interfering substances in herbal preparations. The objective of the study was to develop a robust method for the simultaneous quantitation of selected alkaloids (sanguinarine, chelerythrine, berberine, palmatine, and jatrorrhizine) in different herbal preparations using IC coupled to ESI-MS. A target-induced precursor ion scan mode was used to achieve the sensitive detection of all analytes. A narrow precursor-ion scanning window was applied to minimize the overlapping of fragmented ions. The precursor-ion depletion method resulted in multiple-ion chromatograms of the selected alkaloids with low background, and the monitoring of the selected alkaloids was shown to be sensitive and accurate. The calibration range for the target alkaloids was from 0.2 to 0.9  $\mu\text{g mL}^{-1}$  with LODs in the range 0.03-0
