I need to change the license or something in the software but can't tell what is installed or what should I look for, the license site just gives a description of the product and a download link. Can't seem to find any additional help on the internet. Posted by: reika | Jul 23, 2010 10:15:41 PM Reika, In the 'Purchase Licence Info' it asks you for your email and I find that at the end of that license it will ask for a serial code.. I tried to put in a serial code from a dvd disc (an Episodes 1-4 of Sasa) but it said it was not a valid serial code. Is it the serial code or the 'Purchase Licence Info' that has to be on the website? Posted by: Paul | Jul 23, 2010 2:56:16 AM Any help is appreciated I just can't figure out the serial number to enter into the license manager. Anyone? Posted by: Patty | Jul 23, 2010 3:51:44 AM

CloudCures polled 3,714 consultants and found that the top ranked service of 2012 for cloud adoption was Microsoft Azure. Here are some of the key highlights: 81% of UK cloud adoption is for Windows Azure 8.6% of the respondents reported using a service like Amazon Web Services and if asked if they were using any other services, 32.5% said they were using Google Apps. Cloud adoption is driven by accessibility, scalability, speed of deployment and managed services. Nearly two-thirds of users of cloud-based applications look to save money on their hosting bills and over half of all users will have a move to cloud without notifying their clients. Eighty-one percent of respondents said they are adopting the cloud for Windows Azure, which is unsurprising given the relatively recent launch of Windows Azure. This is likely to be followed by a move to Amazon Web Services, given the UK government's support of the Microsoft-led Open Government Partnership. Amazon is looking to sell services like AppStream to providers of software and services, but the European Commission has deferred the decision on whether to grant it a preliminary authorisation (PA) and it could be a while before there is clarity. CloudCures has written a recent blog post about the report they commissioned on cloud adoption. The report, CloudCures: UK Consultancy Cloud Adoption Survey 2012 (PDF), was carried out by Callum Pengelly and Nick Dallimore of Big ISS Consulting Ltd and was commissioned by CloudCures. Here is their write-up of the report: CloudCures: UK Consultancy Cloud Adoption Survey 2012 (PDF) CloudCures commissioned a survey of 3,714 consultants to find out what the growth in cloud-based services has meant to them and their clients. The results are presented in the report CloudCures: UK Consultancy
