I wish I knew where they found the book... Related to this meme is the then biggest nonsense book of the late 20th century, The 10 Principles of Change by Tom Peters. Yes, that was published in 1981. I bet it's still selling. I wonder how many people know that H.G.

Wells' "The Time Machine" was published the same year as "The Time Machine" movie and only a year after the first "Time Traveller" version. Related to this is this: Albert Einstein's "The Science of Philosophy". The title implies that he was going to be a philosopher or

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a type of liquid crystal display device which comprises a pair of substrates arranged face-to-face, and a spacer which maintains a gap between these substrates, and further comprises an alignment layer which is provided on one of the substrates; and more particularly, to an arrangement in which a part of a spacer of an aluminum-made columnar spacer is embedded in the alignment layer, and in which the part of a spacer is disposed at a position corresponding to a center of a contact hole in the alignment layer, and in which the part of a spacer is provided around a periphery of a region of the alignment layer where the contact hole is present, and has a shape such as to overlap with the contact hole over an entire length of a circumference at an overlapping position which it has at a position corresponding to the contact hole. 2. Related Background Art In this kind of liquid crystal display device, spacers of an insulating material such as glass fibers, silica gel or an acrylic resin are adhered to the substrate which has the alignment layer. However, when an adhesive material is used for adhering the spacer to the substrate, and an additional process is required for adhering the spacer to the substrate, an increase in the number of the processes in the manufacturing process of the liquid crystal display device is unavoidable. Furthermore, if a resin-made spacer is used, variation in spacer diameter causes variation in gap between substrates and visibility performance is deteriorated; therefore, an improvement in the controllability of the spacer diameter is required. In light of these points, there has been known a method in which a spacer of an aluminum-made columnar spacer is used to give a predetermined diameter, and then the spacer is bonded to the substrate by electrodeposition (see Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open No. 61-9479). This method has an advantage that it is possible to carry out electrodeposition in a state where the
