HotHotSoftware Random Name Generator Crack+ [Win/Mac]

HotHotSoftware Random Name Generator is a simple application that takes a list of first and last name, and separates them into random first names, and random last names. Some of the ways you can utilize it: □ You can generate a new name list that can be used to generate one or more lists of names. For example, if you take 1000 names, then select generate a list of 100 names, you will end up with 1000 names □ You can also take a list of names, and use the generate a list of names feature to create sub-lists, such as for first names and last names □ You can create arrays of names or groupings of names for later use. For example, if you had 1000 names, you could first generate 500 first names, and then 300 last names, so you will end up with 1000 names in total □ You can create lists of names for use in games, or for use in emulators (i.e., for use with jC, or with dbmix) □ You can create lists of names that you want to randomize. For example, if you are making an MMORPG, and you want some 'families' of names, you can put together a list of first and last names, and then randomly select some of them to put into the game. ----- Thanks for using HotHotSoftware's Random Name Generator! HotHotSoftware's Random Name Generator is a simple application for generating a batch of names from randomly selected words and their values. HotHotSoftware's Random Name Generator is unique in that you can choose what words are used in the names that are generated from them! - Type in: First Names (first names) - Type in: Last Names (last names) - Type in: Words to use (words) - Then type in the desired number of names - Click Generate Names - You can also choose how to separate the values. If you don't specify it, it will use one space. That may not be desired. Also, you can choose whether to save the names or print them to the clipboard. Mixed Nationalities: ----- Select whether you want to generate mixed nationalities and if you would like to mix and match randomly selected names and nationalities. After selecting Mixed Nationalities and selecting a nationality, you will be able to choose a first name and a last name for that nationality that are selected randomly from the selected name. For example, if you select Mixed Nationalities and select American, then you can choose a first name randomly from the American names and last name randomly from the American names. In addition to that, you can choose whether to randomly select a first name for the nationality or a first name for the first name as well as last name for the nationality or last name for the last name. So in the previous example, you could choose the first name for the American name as well as the first name for the first name of the American name. You can also choose what words to use in the names that are generated from them. Some words have alphabets for their names and other words do not. If you choose from the former, then the names will be alphabets. Mixed Names: ----- Select whether you want to generate mixed names and whether you want to mix and match randomly selected names and nationalities. After selecting Mixed Names and selecting a nationality, you will be able to choose a first name and last name for that nationality that are selected randomly from the selected name. In addition to that, you can choose whether to randomly select a first name for the nationality or a first name for the first name as well as last name for the nationality or last name for the last name. So in the previous example, you could choose the first name
